STRIKE ENDED

H. & B. T. R. R. Meets Demands for More Pay.

The strike of the H. & B. T. trainmen, which lasted for two weeks, was settled last Friday. Vice President Carl Gage met the strikers' committee and offered them a substantial advance in wages and a reduction of an hour in their day's labor. While the advance was not as much as the strikers demanded, the reduction of an hour gives them practically what they asked. Freight brakemen will receive $2.20 instead of $1.97 and the others in proportion.

There was great rejoicing in Saxton and Huntingdon when the news was received, as the majority of the citizens favored the strikers. Hundreds of freight cars, both loaded and empty, were side tracked and business was practically at a standstill.

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams died at her home in Schellsburg Monday morning, November 11, aged 71 years, four months and three days. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Black and was born near New Paris on July 8, 1836. For about six years she had been an invalid, suffering with rheumatism, and was confined to the house and her chair most of that time yet she bore her trials very patiently. Her husband and two children have preceded her to the other world and she leaves to mourn their loss three sons, James, Harry and John, and three daughters, Mrs. O. S. Jamison of Johnstown, Mrs. G. W. Colvin and Mrs. Laura Long, of this place; also by one sister, Mrs. George Horn of Buffalo Mills.

She was a faithful and consistent member of the M. E. church, although she was unable to attend the meetings. Mrs. Williams was a good neighbor, a loving mother and a kind friend to all, and she will be greatly missed, not only by her family but by her many friends. Her daughter, Mrs. Long, lived with her and took care of her during her illness. The funeral services were held at her home and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Guldin, assisted by Rev. ### NEW OPERA HOUSE

Opened by Oscar Hammerstein—The Wonder of the Age—Trouble in the Money Market.

New York, November 12.—With a flourish of trumpets that bid defiance to failure, Oscar Hammerstein opened his new opera house last week. When he closed his doors last season the disgruntled critics who had received no loot declared that he never would open them with Grand Opera again; Oscar Hammerstein swore that he would, and he did—in a manner that assured success for the season. Of his Prima Donna, Madam Nordica, it is not necessary to speak for she won the hearts of New Yorkers years ago. Mr. Hammerstein gave a performance worthy of the best days of the Metropolitan Opera House; this, to some, may seem a matter of small moment but the cultivation of music is an advancement in civilization. He opened this new opera house under very peculiar circumstances; he had no experience in Grand Opera; his capital was limited and he was opposed by a man of established reputation, backed by multi-millionaires who paid the bills without question and were perfectly satisfied if they got the best the market afforded. Mr. Hammerstein's cheap opera seemed like a dream; it certainly was a desperate venture; the public to which he must cater wanted first-class singing and singers at a second-class price, and just there was where his greatest difficulty lay, but the opening performance was a grand success. The new tenor had never been seen or heard of on this side of the Atlantic; he came on the stage a stranger, but he left it with a host of friends.

The material of which Grand Opera is composed is scarce and costly and Herr Conrad, Mr. Hammerstein's competitor as manager of the Metropolitan Opera House, with Wall Street at his back, scoured the musical world. At the meeting, which took place when this manager was about to depart for Europe to engage his company, every member of the executive committee was present. Herr Conrad said, "I am here at your service, gentlemen, what do you want?" The chairman replied, "Grand Opera, and plenty of it and of a quality the best that money can buy." "And the price?" said the manager. "We will settle that when you send in the bills." With this commission he departed and visited every capital in Europe; he picked out the rarest voices that could be found on the European stage; one fine prima donna was not enough, he engaged three; then two first-class tenors, who were favorites at every Royal Opera House in Europe. It was no easy task to induce great singers to leave a land where their own language is spoken, where they are entertained in palaces, and bask in the smiles of royalty; but money is the final incentive after all. The descendant of Julius Caesar loves money as he loves nothing else, and for it he would cross stormy seas and brave danger and death. Against such odds Mr. Hammerstein kept his promise to open his house and he not only did so but to an audience that crowded it from pit to dome. I have no difficulty with Herr Conrad that would induce me to rush with fulsome praise for the performance of opera by Oscar Hammerstein's company, which has favored Greater New York with an old-time favorite in grand opera in a commendable and praise-worthy style at a reasonable price; each of these gentlemen deserves great credit for what he has done and the service he has rendered to elevate grand opera has been and still is a debt which cannot be easily repaid.

The greatest scientific wonder of the age is out of the realm of failure or doubt; it is an established fact leading into future problems of greatness of which the present day can hardly conceive. The warlike nations of Europe are preparing machines to launch armies in murderous battle above the clouds; the result is shocking to think of, but will come as sure as fate. It is true it may open the highways of commerce and it must lead to an easier communication between nations. It is strange how we make words disagree in the olden time we spoke of a man who failed as "gone up in a balloon" and if he did anything dishonorable we said he was "kiting"; but now these words mean the highest plane of honorable competition and knowledge. This last discovery creates almost a new world and a new education; the rate of speed to be compassed is almost incomprehensible; the highway is clear and they are not bound by curves or swithes, and what lies in the future can hardly be comprehended today.

In politics we are all at sea. The unexpected is what frequently happens but in the late elections it was just what the public had a right to expect; the bone and sinew, and heart of the Republican party was thoroughly disgusted with the bargain made with Mr. Hearst; they thought an honorable defeat better than a dishonorable victory and kept away from the poles. There were districts, wholly Republican, where only a few Republicans registered; it was a lesson that will not soon be forgotten.

ATTENTION CITIZENS!

Number Your Houses, Do Not Retard Old Bedford's Progress.

Are you in favor of free delivery of mail for Bedford? If so, do not neglect to have your house numbers placed at the earliest possible date. The postoffice inspector will be here at almost any time and in order to secure free delivery the street signs and house numbers must be conspicuous.

An ordinance has been passed, requiring all property-holders to number their houses under penalty of $50. In the neighborhood of three hundred certificates have been issued up to this time. D. C. Reiley, Esq., secretary of the Borough Council, has had a force of men at work for several days placing the street signs and making other necessary arrangements, all of which must be completed on the arrival of the inspector.

Attend to this important matter at once. It remains for the citizens to decide whether or not Bedford shall have free delivery of mail.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Communication From Our Regular Correspondent

GREAT NAVAL DISPLAY

New Minister to the Netherlands—Difficulty in Recruiting—"Dead" Post Cards to be Sent to Orphan Asylums.

Washington, D. C., November 11.—There is a good deal of grumbling in some quarters over the way that relief has been handed out from the Treasury to the banks during the recent money pinch. It is claimed that the north has been favored at the expense of the south and west. Certain it is that after some of the New York banks got enough money in their vaults to make them feel perfectly safe they refused to respond with cash to the demands on them by their correspondent banks in the interior. The Treasury Department also refused to advance money that would have saved many southern planters from sacrificing their cotton crop in the pinch. Senator Heyburn of Idaho called at the White House this week on the subject; the President told him to put any complaint that he had to make into writing and it would be presented to the Secretary of the Treasury. This he promised to do.

The greatest naval show that has ever been seen in American waters, not excepting the naval review when Admiral Dewey returned from the Philippines, will occur in Hampton Roads on December 16, when the battleship fleet is about to sail for the Pacific coast. The President is going to Hampton Roads to see the fleet start. It will be the greatest fighting force that has ever assembled under the American flag—13 battleships and half-a-dozen first-class cruisers, beside a number of smaller vessels, dispatch boats and supply ships. The preparations for the sailing are almost completed now except taking on the final supplies. The work on such ships as are at the navy yards is practically done and smokeless powder is being forwarded from Indian Head at the rate of 50,000 pounds a day. The range finding instruments, which have all been overhauled, are now being installed and when the fleet assembles inside the Virginia capes it will be as fit as it is possible for preparation to make it. All of the vessels are expected to be in the Roads by December 5 and the time between that and the 16th will be devoted to final inspection and furnishing up. The President has planned to leave Washington the evening of the 15th and will take station on the Mayflower and review the fleet before it passes out to sea.

Announcement was made from the State Department this week of the appointment of David Jayne Hill, now minister to the Netherlands, to be ambassador at Berlin, succeeding Charlemagne Tower. The new ambassador is well known in the State Department, where he was assistant

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Bedford Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Bedford citizen tells here a certain cure.

W. H. Weyant, living on W. Pitt St., Bedford, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills is not a new remedy with me as I have used them off and on for a number of years and would not be without them in the house. I am forced to do a great deal of work while standing on my feet and also some heavy lifting. This brought on my kidney trouble and backache. At such times I appeal to Doan's Kidney Pills and a few doses serve to banish the attacks. I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others."

secretary under the late John Hay; he proved an assistant secretary of much more than common ability; at the same time he was liked both by subordinates and his superior. He was always known simply as "Dr." Hill; probably a good many of the State Department people will have to wait a second time to realize who David Jayne Hill is. One of the chief reasons for satisfaction in the diplomatic corps over the appointment is that it shows that Secretary Root is following out his announced policy of promoting the men of the corps on merit and not going outside the department and the service in search of appointees to the high positions. When this system gets to working thoroughly with the consuls as well (and it has started) the service will offer a life career to the sort of men that it ought to contain and will be much better for both American diplomacy and trade abroad.

The same trouble that has been experienced in the Army and Navy is being felt also in the Marine Corps in getting men to keep the corps up to its legal strength. A report just submitted by General Elliott, chief of the corps, complains of the difficulty in recruiting and gives the same reasons for the difficulty as in the other branches of the service—namely, the superior wages and advantages in civil life.

Postmaster General Von Meyer has shown a nice little human touch of character in an order he has just issued to have the decent variety of picture post cards that find their way into the dead letter office sent to the children in the orphan and foundling asylums instead of destroying them as has been the custom. There are thousands of these misdirected and undelivered cards, some of the handsome and expensive kind, that will thus be put to a good use. It must be said also that the office is being burdened with a constantly increasing flood of obscene cards that are, of course, confiscated as soon as they are found. Most of them come into the mails from abroad; they are received at the postoffice by the cartload, turned over to a trusted corps of men, and burned in the furnace in the basement of the building. The increase in this class of mail matter is worthy of note.

Don't wear feathers. A stiff hat, not too large, trimmed with quills, wings or ribbon, is smarter.

Don't wear a net veil. Substitute either a chiffon veil or use a hair net to keep your coiffure in order.

Don't wear your best clothes. Either a tailor-made suit or a mackintosh, worn with a short cloth skirt, is more appropriate.

Don't wear thin shoes. If over-shoes hurt your feet, try rubbing a pair of calfskin boots with neatfoot oil. It will make them almost impervious to water.

Don't wear white kid gloves, new or old. If new, they will be quickly ruined. If old, they are unsuitable and tawdry. Dogskin gloves will stand the wear very well unless they are drenched.—New York Journal.

Hermits—Three eggs, one cup butter, one and one-half cups sugar, one and one-half cups raisins chopped, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cassia, cloves, drop in pan.

Fig Cake—One cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, one cup of flour; add one-half cup of cornstarch, one-half cup of sweet milk, white of five eggs, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half pound figs, chopped fine and boiled in one cup of water.

Chocolate Fudge—Two cups sugar, one cup milk, one-fourth bar chocolate; mix together and cook until a spoonful dropped into cold water can be rolled into a soft ball. Take from the stove and put aside to cool. When cold beat with a spoon until it becomes thick; turn out on a moulding board and knead like dough until soft and creamy. Cut into squares.

Hickory Nut Cake—Here is a good recipe for hickory nut cake: Cream a cupful of sugar, half a cupful of butter and add the yolks of two eggs. Sift together two cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of cream of tartar and half a teaspoonful of soda. Make a cavity in the center of the flour and pour the other ingredients into it, gradually mixing all together. Add a cupful of hickory nuts and raisins minced; lastly the whites of two eggs. Add just a little milk if the batter needs more moistening. Bake in broad, shallow pans, cut into squares and frost, decorating the top of each square with three hickory nut meats.

LEARN TO EAT

Few People in Bedford Really Know How.

Slow eating will solve one-half the problem of ill health. Those who suffer already with indigestion and weak stomach can with care and the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets restore their digestion to a healthy condition, so that they can eat what they want at any time without fear of distress or suffering.

After a few days' use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, the headache, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, nervousness, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear, and perfect digestion and a good skin will show that the vital machinery is once more running smoothly.

Take a little Mi-o-na tablet before each meal so that it will stimulate the digestive juices and give strength to the stomach, and then it will take care of the food that is eaten, without indigestion and the unpleasant full feeling with which so many suffer after meals.

F. W. Jordan had so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure indigestion and all stomach ills that he gives a guarantee with every 50-cent box to refund the money if the remedy fails to give satisfaction. Nov. 8-21.

Perspiring Hands

Perspiring hands are always an evidence of nervousness. It is a good plan to bathe them occasionally with white-wine vinegar, afterward dusting them with powdered orris root. Persons suffering with such an annoyance should make it a practice to dust their gloves daily with powdered prepared chalk and should take plenty of outdoor exercise.

"BEN-HUR"

Chance Meeting Inspired the Writing of Lew Wallace's Wonderful Book.

Few people know that it was the famous agnostic, Robert G. Ingersoll, who caused the writing of the novel, "Ben-Hur," the stage version of which has created an absolute sensation, not only in this country, but in England and Australia. It came about through a chance meeting of the two famous men in a railroad journey, when Christianity became a subject of their talk. General Wallace had always been a man of strong religious inclination; indeed his splendid description of the appearance of the Star of Bethlehem to the wise men of the desert had been written before this chance acquaintance.

The arguments and claims of the great infidel were too much for the doughty general. His senses were charmed with the eloquence and poetical presentation of the causes of agnosticism, but he was by no means convinced of its truth. The discussion made him deeply reflective and led him to make a careful and exhaustive study of the life of the Nazarene. The result of this research and General Wallace's answer to Ingersoll was "Ben-Hur," a work which has been more widely read than any printed volume save the sacred Book of Scriptures.

The placing of "Ben-Hur" on the stage in dramatic form was attended with many interesting circumstances. General Wallace had strenuously opposed any dramatization of his immortal work, notwithstanding that the late Lawrence Barrett and many other noted thespians made the request. The author had always believed in the theatre as an elevating influence for good, but he was unable to see how the main incidents of his book could be put into dramatic form without violating the firmly grounded principles of all who believe in the Christian religion.

Finally Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger hit upon a plan which would be perfectly effective and yet treat the subject with all possible respect. They conceived the idea of simply suggesting the presence of the Saviour by a shaft of pure white light of remarkable brilliancy. This suggestion appealed to the General and led to the business arrangement which has been so substantially satisfactory to both writer and manager.

"Ben-Hur" will be presented at the New Mishler Theatre, Altoona, Pa., the entire week of November 13 to 23rd inclusive, with special matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The prices will scale from 50c to $2, just the same as marked the engagement in New York.

The sale of seats for "Ben-Hur" will open at the New Mishler Theatre box office on Thursday morning, November 14. Special attention will be given to mail orders when accompanied by a remittance, and a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. All requests for seats should be addressed to J. C. Mishler, manager New Mishler Theatre, Altoona, Pa.

You can't be well if you have a weak, unhealthy, tired out stomach. Neither can you feel good if by some little irregularity in eating you have caused the stomach to get out of order. These little stomach troubles are signs of indigestion, which may and very often does turn into a very bad case of dyspepsia. Don't allow this to go on a single day without doing something to overcome it. Take some good reliable and safe digestant like KODOL For Dyspepsia. KODOL is the best remedy known today for heart burn, belching and all troubles arising from a disordered digestion. It is pleasant to take and affords relief promptly. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

MAKING A NEWSPAPER

Moving Pictures Show Every Step in Production of "The Record."

There has been a general curiosity of the part of the public to know how a modern newspaper is made and how it is put all the whole story was recently told at Keefe's Philadelphia Theatre, in a remarkable series of fifteen motion pictures called "The Making of a Modern Newspaper." "The Philadelphia Record" was selected as the model by S. Lubin, who made the series of very telling pictures.

The series opens with a scene depicting a newspaper office over a hundred years ago. This is to give artist and historical contrast to the great mechanical advance in journalism since that time. It shows the outside of an old Philadelphia printing shop, and the next glimpse is of the inside of the same printery. A journeyman is laboriously pulling impressions with a Blawie, of Washington hand press, while his apprentice is busy among the type, both being dressed in the costume of the period. Next appears Ben Franklin himself. He walks to the window, looks critically at the sheet, and again returns to his office, in a short time putting on his hat and walking out.

The next picture jumps across a century and gives a true panoramic view of the home of "The Philadelphia Record." In a flash is seen "The Record's" famous Electric Baseball Score Board with the great crowd watching the progress of an exciting game between the Athletics and the Phillies.

The next picture shows the business offices of "The Philadelphia Record," with the office force and the ordinary routine of business going on. From that point the real tour of "The Philadelphia Record" establishment begins.

The managing editor is shown in consultation with various members of staff, and all see true to life that the effect is as if they were transacting their business in real flesh and blood before the audience. Next comes the city editor, with his corps of reporters, each one attending to his or her own business, according to the exigencies of the moment. Then comes the managing editor, with the department of the advertising manager, which shows an array of solicitors receiving their various assignments.

Receiving want and other advertisements by telephone is an interesting sight that follows next. This is a feature of advertising that in recent times has grown to great proportions. Something akin, but broader in its scope, is the succeeding view of the telegraph room, where a skilled corps of operators is busy receiving news from every point of the compass. The messages are directly taken on typewriters, and so realistic is the picture that the spectators can almost fancy they hear the click and rattle of the instruments and the machines.

Next comes a prominent feature of the making of a modern newspaper—the "Drawing of the Daily Cartoon." The spectators see the artist actually at work and are at once impressed with the deftness of his pen and the modesty of his studio. The next step is into the Mechanical Department, the visitor is treated to a close range view of "Setting Up Advertisements" by hand, succeeded by a tour through the linotyping room, where "The Philadelphia Record's" big batteries of linotype machines are shown in active operation. Then come the pieces of mechanism were ever exhibited to better advantage. The stereotyping room comes next, with every operation shown in detail, including a complete demonstration of MacConnell's new Eclipse automatic finishing and cooling machine, which in one simple operation does the work of the four machines hitherto deemed necessary for slitting, trimming, cooling and accurately finishing the semi-cylindrical stereotype plates.

The next natural step is a visit to "The Philadelphia Record" press room, and the exhibition is such a fine one that even the dullest admire the magnificent series of views so faithfully portrayed on the screen. The great presses are shown to the fullest advantage from every end and angle, and at every stage of the journey, from the placing of the blank rolls on the spindles to the finished newspapers that may be seen rushing out of the mouths of the presses by the tens of thousands per hour.

One of the busiest departments is the delivery, mailing and shipping room. There the papers are automatically conveyed from the press room by an endless elevator and several hustling groups of men are kept on the jump putting up bundles, wrapping parcels and getting ready for the mail bags individual copies for out of town subscribers. Next is shown "Making the Trains," where the wagon delivery service every morning makes good the boast that "The Philadelphia Record" is always on time.

Cover the Telephone

The telephone is a fine receptacle for germs of every kind, and little attention is paid to sterilizing this much-used machine. It should be washed out with alcohol as often as required, and to keep the dust out of it make a small round cover of soft leather or heavy cloth and stitch a broad ribbon around the edge, through which can be run a drawing string or elastic. Put this over the transmitter.

Cured of Bright's Disease

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elkhorn, N. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. ## Cessna's Reply

To the Bedford Inquirer:—
In the two issues of the Bedford Inquirer, November 1 and November 8, accounts of the doings at the almshouse are given which conceal half the facts and which were intended only for electioneering purposes. Part of a truth only, sometimes, is equal to a lie, therefore, when an editor prints in his paper an account let him give the whole truth of that account.

The facts referred to are these: That I, as Democratic Director of the Poor, had promised to lift the lid at the almshouse. I, alone, could do very little, yet to me is due the credit of first advocating the idea of abolishing the free dinners and lodgings at the almshouse, which now the editor of the Inquirer wishes to credit to the other directors.

In answer to my salary being $179.23 for the first nine months of my term, and the salary of the other directors $20 to $30 lower for the same time, I need only recall to him that I have most of the poorer districts assigned to me, which are Colerain, Cumberland Valley, Snake Spring, the Southamptons, Mann, Monroe, West Providence, Everett, and the lower part of Bedford township. I can safely say that I go on business only where I am called by Justices of the Peace and the poor and needy. The salaries vary and those of the other directors may be higher the next year than mine. The whole truth is that I have more poor and needy to look after than the other two directors, and that is why my salary was a little higher.

J. B. Cessna,
Director of the Poor.

Ballot-Box Frauds

Now that the ballots are no longer numbered the opening of the ballot-boxes for the correction of mistakes or for the uncovering of fraud does not bring about a disclosure of any voter's preference. The secrecy of the ballot remains undisturbed. This completely does away with the only valid objection heretofore urged against such recount of the ballots as is necessary for the punishment of fraud. Should a poll of the voters in some of the election districts where the official returns show presumptive evidence of fraud in the count of votes for or against the city loan make the proof of fraud conclusive, there ought to be no hesitation on the part of the judges of the courts in ordering a complete revision and the opening of every ballot-box to secure it. There can be no more far-reaching crime perpetrated in this country than is involved in a conspiracy to defeat the sovereign will of the people as expressed at the polls. The judges, who are themselves the creatures of elective selection, ought to be foremost in the endeavor to guard the purity of the franchise.—Philadelphia Record.

EX-STATE TREASURER SUED

$20,000 Alleged to Have Been Given as a Bribe.

Among the many sensations which have developed since the failure of the Enterprise Bank of Allegheny in 1905, the most surprising is a suit in assumpsit entered in the U. S. District Court against ex-State Treasurer Frank G. Harris, by Thomas Rinkaker, receiver of the defunct institution, claiming $20,000 with interest from October 23, 1903.

The petition alleges that Harris as State Treasurer selected the Enterprise National Bank as a state depository, making aggregate deposits of state money of $20,890,000. It is alleged that Pennsylvania Development Company was formed by T. Lee Clark, cashier of the Enterprise Bank, who killed himself the morning the government closed the institution; William H. Andrews, territorial delegate to Congress from New Mexico; Arthur Kennedy and Francis J. Torrence, two prominent Pittsburghers.

It is stated that Andrews, Clark, Kennedy and Torrence entered into an agreement whereby the Pennsylvania Development Company was enabled to borrow large sums from the Enterprise Bank. Harris, it is alleged, was given two checks of $10,000 each by Clark, October 21, 1903, drawn upon the Merchants' National Bank of Philadelphia, where the Enterprise Bank carried a large account, and it is distinctly charged that Harris used the money realized on these checks for his own personal benefit, knowing that the drafts were fraudulently given him and that he was accepting a bribe for his part in permitting the promoters of the Pennsylvania Development Company to use the funds of the Enterprise Bank and the state.

Nine persons were admitted to membership at the afternoon service. Rev. Day, the pastor, was presented with a purse of $50. Holy communion was observed at the evening service and over 500 persons were present. John Fulton, chief mining engineer for the Cambria Iron Company, who was among the organizers of the first Presbyterian congregation, took a prominent part in the exercises of the day. ## IN SUNNY TENNESSEE

M. P. Heckerman Meets Former Residents of Old Bedford.

Hickory, N. C., Nov. 11, 1907. Some people think that they never get enough for their money, as the following will show: One day last week I had dinner at the Jonesboro Hotel, Jonesboro, Tenn., and it was the best meal that I had eaten since I left home. Oh! that good Pennsylvania style of making chicken gravy and those mashed potatoes as light as the wind that blows the leaves from off the trees. The dinner was prepared under the superintendency of Mrs. Mary Nicodemus and had anyone seen me eat they might have thought that I had been playing Dr. Tanner. At another table sat a man from the country and he ate as much as "Peeps," if not more. He laid down 25 cents for his feed. Mr. Russell, the very kind and accommodating landlord, said "35 cents, my friend." "Why," said the farmer, "I have been getting dinners here for many years and never paid more than 25 cents for a dinner. I did not eat 35 cents' worth." "I can't help that," said Mr. R. "The price is 35 cents a meal to you and every other country man." "Well, I did not eat 35 cents' worth and if I must pay that I will go back and eat more and get the worth of my money," and so he did. Went back into the dining-room and ate several biscuits and other things. This is the kind of men whom I referred to as not getting enough for their money. In all my traveling I get to a dining table than the Russells' at Jonesboro, Tenn. Everything is as clean as a new pin.

If this financial pinch keeps up I don't see where or how I am to get cash with which to pay hotel bills and railroad fare. The banks all have different rules. At Canton, N. C., they open at ten and close at two, will only pay out five dollars at a time and not over three times in a week to one man, and it makes no difference how much money you have in said bank. The fact is, they are getting no money in and I was told that the banks of this town (Canton) did not get in a hundred dollars in a week. The banks of Asheville, N. C., pay checks of not over ten in value, but won't give the owner of the check more than thirty dollars in a week. At first, or two weeks ago, they cashed checks of a hundred; then it was out to fifty, and later to ten dollars. Very many persons are being laid off from work and improvements are being suspended. New railroads are at a standstill and the mules and oxen, that for many months have daily been drawing logs to the mills and depots, are now grazing on the hill-sides and the yokes are hanging on the fence; all because nine out of ten lumber plants have been brought to a standstill. As a business man of Bedford says, because of the gambling in Wall street, "let the cause for all this uneasiness in the financial world be what it will, I'll be mighty glad to see confidence restored and the piles of money on the bankers' counters as of yore."

At Morristown, Tenn., I wanted some money the other day with which to pay Dr. Preston Metzger for some work and J. F. Goodson said to the bankers, "this man is traveling; he is a personal friend of mine and he must have the money and you must give it to me for him." The money came. Pres. Metzger has a son in training to outclass his Uncle Sol in all athletic games; you ought to see this youngster. The members of the Bedford colony living in and around Johnson City, Tenn., are all well and happy as bees about a "lasses barrel."

I had the pleasure of meeting L. L. Jenkins, formerly of Mann's Choice tannery, fame, last week; he now lives at New Port, Tenn., has charge of three large leather concerns, is a director in two Asheville banks, owner of a telephone system that has not made him any money in some years, is road commissioner, and head of a very pleasant family who live in a neat cottage on the banks of the French Broad river, surrounded by all that money can buy in the way of conveniences. He was at Bedford during Old Home Week and is loud in his praises of the same. May good luck always be his.

The mountains in Tennessee and North Carolina are most beautiful at this season of the year, the weather for weeks has been ideal and my umbrella has been a nuisance, but I'll use it today for it is raining and I am going to hear Rev. Murphy preach.

What action has been taken toward numbering the houses, "naming" the streets, etc., so that we can get the free delivery system going? Then again, what has been done toward paving our main streets? Do not let these two improvements lag, I beg of you. Yours truly,

M. P. Heckerman.

Mr. A. E. Ryan made a business trip to Pittsburgh this week.
 Mrs. Harrison Hartley and son, Mr. Harry Hartley, returned last Saturday from a visit to relatives in Beatrice, Neb. Mr. Hartley also spent some time in several other western states.
 Atty. D. S. Horn, Frank Thompson, Esq., and Editor S. A. Van Ormer are serving as jurors at the U. S. Circuit Court in Pittsburgh this week. Miss Helma Horn accompanied her father and will spend the week with relatives.

A Gracious Revival

The special meetings that are being held in the M. E. church are well attended, and much interest manifested. The pastor, Rev. F. W. Biddle, and a host of Christian workers are laboring with great success. One hundred and fifteen have been converted and sanctified up to this time and many more are endeavoring to turn to the Christian life. The meetings will be continued as long as the interest warrants and all are most cordially invited to attend.

A Friend.

Post Meeting

Major William Watson Post held a very interesting meeting Tuesday afternoon. Two additions were made to the Post, one death was reported and one new application for membership was handed in. Nominations were made for the ensuing year, election will be held next month. The comrades think that our County Commissioners made a mistake in refusing to allow the different Posts assistance for Decoration Day services as the law allows.

Josiah Hissong, Adjutant.

Former Bedford Man Arrested

The following dispatch from Findlay, O., was clipped from the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times of November 12: "Mrs. Hattie Morehouse of Washington, D. C., found her husband, Dr. Wilbur A. Morehouse, at Gibsonburg, a small oil town north of here, and had him arrested on a charge of failure to support a six-year-old son. Mrs. Morehouse said she had been hunting her husband six years throughout the United States and Cuba. After leaving his wife in Bedford, Pa., Morehouse secured a divorce. He went to Iowa and in 1903 went to Gibsonburg, where he operated a photograph gallery. Two years ago he married Miss May Karuth of Williams, Ia. Mrs. Morehouse No. 2 is a popular Sandusky county club woman. She is standing by her husband in his present difficulty."
 W. A. Morehouse was formerly a photographer at this place.

Wreck Near Everett

A coal train on the Pennsylvania railroad pulled a coupler out above Everett last Friday evening, and part of the coal train ran back and collided with a passenger train of that road, damaging a coach and derailling several cars of coal. No one was injured. The passengers were shaken up and the postal and baggage clerks received several bruises. The night train on the P. R. was delayed several hours.

Joseph E. Thropp and son, who were on the train wired to Everett for a cab. On the way to Everett the cab was upset and John Hershberger of Everett, who was in the party, sustained a severe wound on his arm, laying the muscle bare.

Deer Season Opens

Today the deer hunters will set up their camps on the mountains in this state and enjoy a season of deer hunting. The hunters are dissatisfied with the new law, which allows only the killing of stags. Deer are plentiful in the southern section and many on the Caledonia reservation are partially tame. The season lasts from November 15 to December 1, and only one deer a season is allowed each person, under penalty of $100.

MANY WILL ATTEND

Rendition of "Ben-Hur," General Wallace's Famous Work.

Keen interest is centered in the staging of "Ben-Hur" at the New Mishler Theatre, Altoona, next week. The announcement that it is to fill the entire week of November 18 to 23, with special matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday, establishes the claim that it is to be as elaborately presented as at the Nixon Theatre, Pittsburgh, the Chestnut Street Opera House, Philadelphia, or the Broadway Theatre, New York City. There has never been but one company interpreting "Ben-Hur," so theatregoers will have the pleasure of seeing many of the original cast that made the mighty religious-historical romance the unparalleled success of the century.

"Ben-Hur" with its lustrous Star of Bethlehem, its camels, Arabian steeds, Oriental trappings, and mimic splendor of the "gorgeous East" is beyond dispute the most elaborate spectacle ever staged in the history of the world. Its series of 17 scenes present to the eye a feast of multifarious beauty and variety, all set to a symphonic accompaniment of graceful music. The exciting episodes, such as the galley scene with its horde of chained slaves, the sea fight, the rescue in mid-sea and the thrilling race with three chariots and twelve horses, combined with the picturesque scenes illustrating the Wise Men in the desert, the moonlit lake in the Orchard of Palms where Ben-Hur and Iras enjoy seclusion and make love in Iras' barge, the palm-waving worshippers on Mount Olivet, and the Grove of Daphne with its nymphs dancing in the skins of beasts to the music of kissing cymbals—simply captivate audiences wherever it is enacted.

"Ben-Hur" appeals to all classes, all ages and all denominations of the Christian faith, and draws to it, as to a place of worship, hundreds of thousands who seldom, if ever, set foot within a theatre. The person of the Saviour is never made to appear bodily in the play, yet in the scene in which the healing of the lepers is implied the approach of the Master is indicated by a stream of pure white light, amazing in its effectiveness. This scene is the most remarkable of the play and is heightened in impressiveness by the singing of a chorus of one hundred voices, joining in "Hosannas" of praise to the Lord.

Seats for the "Ben-Hur" season were placed on sale yesterday. Prices will range from 50 cents to $2. Mail orders if accompanied by remittance will receive prompt attention, as I. C. Mishler, manager of the New Mishler Theatre at Altoona, is desirous of favoring out of town patronage.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin.

THE NEW UNION STATION AT WASHINGTON.

All the passenger trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad will enter and depart from the new Union Station at Washington on November 17, 1907, and on the same date the present station at Sixth and B Streets will be closed to traffic.

The date is singularly fitting. In 1807 both wings of the Capitol were completed, and now a century later a building even larger is opened for a great public utility, which did not exist at that time.

The railroad terminal facilities at Washington have been inadequate for years, particularly at inauguration periods and on the assemblage of other large gatherings at the Capital. Their improvement was imperative and so it has come about that, by the combined effort of the railroads and the United States Government, one of the largest and unquestionably the handsomest railroad station in the world is now provided not only for the convenience of the citizens of the United States, but as a notable architectural addition to the great public buildings of the Capital City. It is a monumental edifice and a worthy type of the future structures, which will make Washington the municipal beauty spot of the world.

The station including the Concourse is longer than the Capitol and nearly as wide. The waiting room is larger than the hall of the House of Representatives. The concourse, which is a train lobby, is longer than the interior of the Capitol building, if it were one continuous hall, and half as wide. It is the largest building ever constructed for a like purpose.

Within this great structure there is every convenience the traveler can desire, so grouped about the central hall as to serve his purpose to the best advantage.

The lofty arched entrances face a plaza as large as an ordinary city park, which will be laid out as a plaza and adorned with shrubbery and fountains.

The trackage is sufficient for all demands upon it and as the entrance to and exit from the trains are separated, the confusion and jostling of hurrying crowds moving in opposite directions will be obviated.

The bigness of the station is impressive; its utilities obvious.

CORN HUSKING

Neighbors Assist S. H. Shaffer With Fall Work.

Several months ago, S. H. Shaffer, who lives near Hughes' bridge in Bedford township, had his right foot severely mangled; since then he has been compelled to use crutches and has been unable to get his fall work done. Wednesday afternoon about twenty of Mr. Shaffer's neighbors took possession of his corn field and proceeded to husk and haul in the corn. By evening two hundred and fifty bushels of corn were in the crib. In the meantime the women had been busy and had prepared a royal feast. With keen appetites the merry crowd surrounded the festive board and in a most convincing manner showed its appreciation of the meal placed before them.

The following are the names of those present: Frank Leonard, William Bridgman, Charles Easter, James E. Cleaver, George Williams, Frank Smith, Rev. and Mrs. John Diehl, W. F. Cleaver, Mrs. Harry Smith, George Dilling, Samuel Diehl, Frank Reighard, Adam Carpenter, Harry Smith, Charles McClellan, Ed. ## TRUE FIT

To be conscious of carrying a shoe about on your foot is to prove it—well, a failure. When you put on a "Queen Quality" shoe it feels as if it were made for you—it clasps the foot so gently that you are unconscious of its presence.

It seems to become a part of you for the time being, so perfectly does it fit. Why endure discomfort and perhaps cripple yourself hopelessly when for a moderate sum you can buy a pair of comfort-giving "Queen Quality."

GEO. T. JACOBS & BRO.

Rapid changes of temperature are hard on the toughest constitution.

The conductor passing from the heated inside of a trolley car to the icy temperature of the platform—the canvasser spending an hour or so in a heated building and then walking against a biting wind—know the difficulty of avoiding cold.

Scott's Emulsion strengthens the body so that it can better withstand the danger of cold from changes of temperature.

It will help you to avoid taking cold.

ALL DRUGGISTS: 50c. AND $1.00.

Good Household Hints

If a few grains of salt are sprinkled on the coffee before the water is added it will bring out and improve the flavor.

A carpet should never be laid on a damp floor, for the latter at once becomes a breeding place for moths.

Egg cups or dishes stained with egg should not be washed in hot water, but placed first in cold water, in order to get the stains off easily.

Bathing behind the ears with hot water will often relieve a bad headache.

Starch made with soapy water prevents the irons from sticking and gives a better gloss to the linen.

If a teaspoonful of vinegar is added to the water in which fish is to be washed, a most delicious flavor will be imparted to it.

Where a large rug is used in place of a carpet, put newspapers underneath, just as you would in laying a carpet, except that they should be placed a short distance from the edge so that in sweeping or moving furniture, they are not exposed. This saves wear and tear on the rug and makes it besides much warmer in the cold weather.

Alum added to the water in which clothes are rinsed will render the garments incombustible, especially children's flannels.

Medicine stains on silver spoons are removed by rubbing with a rag dipped in sulphuric acid. The spoon should be well washed afterward with soap and water.

Aluminum, though expensive, is considered the best for cooking utensils. It is light in weight and has a clean-looking appearance. A simple washing in soap and hot water, then a thorough drying, is all that is necessary to keep this ware in good condition.

DeWitt's Carbolicized Witch Hazel Salve penetrates the pores—thoroughly cleanses—and is healing and soothing. Good for piles. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Along the Wissahickon

Philadelphians need not travel to Egypt to view the Sphinx, according to the imaginative admirers of the Wissahickon. Of the many curious and famous rocks found along the ten-mile length of the Wissahickon drive none is more prominent than the Sphinx-like projection near the mouth of the creek, near the spot where it empties into the Schuylkill.

Although this is not one of the most prominent points along the creek—being just below Ridge avenue where it crosses the Wissahickon, from which glimpses of it can be obtained during the time of summer leafage and a distinct view for trolley passengers during the winter months—there are few Wissahickon rocks apparently so little known. While the rock does not exactly resemble any one of the mythical creatures of the Egyptians, it has been appropriately named the Sphinx Rock, and its elevated position keeps it in prominent view from many sections of the hilly slopes further up the creek, as well as from the trolleys on Ridge avenue and the trains passing over the High Bridge.

While the entire length of the legendary stream and its beautiful drive is thronged with rocks about which many romances cluster, from the "Mom Winkie Rock," further up the stream, the huge pile on which the Toleration statue stands, and the caverned rock over which the statue of Teddyseong stands guard, to the "crouching Indians" claimed to be distinctly outlined in various rocks overhanging the creek (though not always distinct to unimagined ones), there are few that stand out more conspicuously than the Sphinx Rock now that the screening foliage has disappeared that keeps it partially hidden from view during the summer.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching poas. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

The American Abroad.

It has for years been brought home to us—by comment more or less complimentary—that we Americans traveling abroad are closely scrutinized by the Europeans. But perhaps we have not realized that the observing eyes of the younger—in fact, the youngest—generation are turned upon us.

A Parisian woman going to her children's playroom discovered her little boy and girl absorbed in a remarkable occupation. The boy stood motionless and solemn on a small table in the middle of the room. The girl, arrayed in grownup hat and coat, walked slowly round him, regarding him thoughtfully, now and then peering abstractedly into a red covered book in her hand.

"What are you doing, children?" asked the puzzled parent. "Oh, Paul is the Column Vendome, mamma," gravely explained the sister, "and I am a tourist from America—with a book, you know."

The Canary.

Canaries and other birds in cages, says an authority on the subject, very easily get rheumatism in their poor little legs from damp perches. And as a legful of rheumatism is a legful of pain, no matter what the size of the sufferer, it is not to be supposed that rheumatism is a less serious matter for a canary than for an elephant. The perches, therefore, should be kept dry. If the little feet get sore, bathing in rosewater will cure them. If the bird has a chill it should have two or three doses of olive oil and be sheltered carefully from drafts. Even in warm weather birds should not be hung in drafts, for they are very susceptible to them. Another "don't" for the woman who wants her bird to sing is "don't give the bird sweets." Sweet things affect a bird as they do a human singer—they roughen the voice.

English Proper Names.

As for the pronunciation of place names, "I can give thee a capper," says a north country friend. Ulverston, on the borders of the lake district, is locally known as "Ooston." There is a story about a native who had been to a fell side sheep dog trial and, returning home, got into a wrong train. "Where for?" demanded a porter. "Ooston," grunted the inebriate, so they took him to Euston right away. Why not? "Ooston" has a twin brother, by the way, in "Peetruth," the vernacular rendering of Penrith, which would easily saddle on a story of similar nature about Perth. And at King's Cross you may deceive a booking clerk by asking for a ticket to Oban. He thinks you mean Holborn.—London Chronicle.

A Significant Prayer

"May the Lord help you make Bucklen's Arnica Salve known to all," writes G. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. It quickly took the pain out of a felon for me and cured it in a wonderfully short time. Best on earth for sores, burns and wounds. 25c at all drug stores.

Easily Turned.

A small boy was asked to take dinner at the home of a distinguished professor in Princeton. The lad's mother, in fear lest he should commit some breach of etiquette, gave him repeated directions as to what he should and should not do.

Upon his return from the great occasion the mother's first question was, "Harold, did you get along at the table all right?"

"Oh, yes, mamma, well enough." "Are you sure you didn't do anything that was not perfectly polite and gentlemanly?"

"Why, no—nothing to speak of." "Then something did happen. What was it?"

"But I fixed it all right, mamma." "Tell me at once."

"Why, I got along pretty well until the meat came, but while I was trying to cut mine it slipped off on to the floor. But I made it all right." "What did you do?"

"Oh, I just said sort of carelessly, 'That's always the way with tough meat.'—Youth's Companion.

We have secured the agency for Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup, the new laxative that makes the liver lively, purifies the breath, cures headache and regulates the digestive organs. Cures chronic constipation. Ask us about it. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Boiling It Down.

"I should like to manage this paper for about six months," said the new reporter of a country paper. "The present editor doesn't know his business."

"What's the matter?" he was asked. "Why, last night I was told off to report a fire in Broad street, and I wrote it up in grand style, making a half column article of it. I began it in this way:

"Suddenly on the still night air rang the shrill cry of fire, and at the same moment the little licking tongues of flame, whose light, playing along the roof's edge, caught the eye of the midnight watcher, leaped forth, no longer playful, but fierce and angry in their thirst and greed. Like glowing, snaky demons, the lurid links entwined the doomed building. In venomous hisses and spurts the flames shot into the overhanging darkness, while from every window and door poured forth a dense sulphurous smoke, the deadly suffocating breath of an imprisoned fiend."

"I went on in that style for over half a column," said the new reporter, "and this is what appeared in the paper this morning:

"A fire broke out in Broad street last night, but was quickly suppressed." Do you call that journalism?"—London Standard.

Love and Wedlock.

A man of middle age and a youth of romantic appearance sat alone in a smoking compartment of a nearly empty evening train. In the solitude the youth took a photograph from his pocket, looked at it and then said to his companion feverishly:

"Were you ever, sir, in love?"

The man of middle age started. He laughed.

"Was I ever in love?" he repeated as he re-lighted his pipe. "Was I ever in love? Well, I don't know if—"

"You don't know?" cried the youth. "Well, if you ever had been in love you'd know it. Why, when you're in love your life is a sweet dream, you have no taste for food, you think of nothing but the beauty of—"

"Were you ever married?" snapped the middle aged man.

"No, but—"

"Well, if you ever had been you'd know it. Why, when you're married your life is—"

But the youth, with a scowl, edged off to the far end of the carriage and got out at the next station, disgusted.—London Scraps.

His Awful Fate.

An American visitor in a German city bought a dachshund. The animal's length of body, short and peculiarly shaped legs and "highly intelligent dach's face," he writes, would have made the dog conspicuous among the finest of his breed. "One day we missed him and were unable to find our pet. Next day his dead body, a little longer than in life, was shown to me by the man who came to tell us he had found the dog. He was very dead, but I did want to know how he met his untimely end and after inquiring learned that he had been run over by a 'spiegelscheibentransportwagen.' I could readily understand how that would have killed even an elephant and wanted to know why the infernal machine had been allowed to come into the city. It was a relief to be told that a spiegelscheibentransportwagen is a wagon on which mirror plates are transported. Poor little dach's!"

The Sheikh and His House.

When the French came into contact with the Bedouin in Algeria, it was thought that a ready way of civilizing him would be to assist him to build himself a permanent habitation. A sheik who was thus favored was full of gratitude to the French engineers who had built him a house.

"Since my house was finished," he said, "I have not lost a single sheep. I lock them up in my house every night, and next morning I find them all in safety."

"Then where do you sleep yourself?" asked an officer in amazement. "Oh, for myself, a sheik can live only in his tent!" said the other, with dignity.

The Truth.

Gobsa Golde descended painfully from his ninety horsepower automobile.

"I wish to purchase," he said, an engagement ring."

"Yes, sir," said the eager clerk. "We have just imported a superb ring, sir—two ruby hearts surrounded—"

"No," said the aged millionaire in a cold, disillusioned voice; "no, that won't do. There is only one heart concerned in this affair. The girl is marrying me for my money."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"Packing Off of Widows."

Some curious customs in the way of pastimes prevail in Korea. Among the farming classes there is one known as the "packing off of widows." This means a raid on a certain village known to contain a young widow. A widower, accompanied by friends, enters the village, carries off the woman in question and marries her.

The Deadheads.

"What started the riot at the performance of 'Hamlet' last night?" "Ham held the skull and said, 'Alas, poor Yorick, you are not the only dead head in the house.'—Pearson's Weekly.

Her Way.

"There's a young woman who makes little things count." "How does she do it?" "Teaches arithmetic in a primary school."

Do not seek glory; nothing so expensive as glory.—Sydney Smith.

Compliments After Death.

There is a German proverb which says, "Man darf nur sterben um gelobt zu werden." (We need only die in order to get praised). This, we cannot help but admit, is fairly true in a general sense, and if we required any proof or confirmation the epitaphs in cemeteries, churchyards and churches would readily furnish it. Indeed if we had no other testimony to go by than these pious inscriptions we might almost fancy that men and women had arrived at such a state of perfection that they were little less than angels. Death, like time, is a great healer of wounds, a great soother of passions, a great calmer of turbulent thoughts, a slayer of enmity. He is the peace-maker par excellence, having caused the saying to gain general currency that we should say nothing of the dead but what is good. Among the laws of the "Twelve Tables," compiled by the Decemviri, there was one which, in fact, forbade to speak injuriously of the dead. It is in exchange for this doubtless that we are always doubly anxious and ready to vilify the living.—Westminster Gazette.

A Spurgeon Ruse.

Spurgeon, the famous English divine, once passed a stonemason who, after each stroke of his hammer, cursed and swore. Mr. Spurgeon laid his hand on his shoulder and, looking kindly at him, said: "You are an adept at swearing. Can you also pray?"

With another oath he replied, "Not very likely."

Holding up 5 shillings, Mr. Spurgeon said if he would promise never to pray he would give him that. "That is easily earned," said the man, with a fresh oath, and put it in his pocket. When Spurgeon left the man began to feel a little queer. When he went home his wife asked him what ailed him, and he told her. "It is Judas' money," said the man, and on a sudden impulse he threw it into the fire. The wife found it and took it out and discovered who had given it to him. The man took it back to Spurgeon, who conversed long with him, warning him, and at length was the means of saving him. He became an attached member of his flock.

'Twas in Tater Time.

The late Senator Platt of Connecticut enjoyed funny stories and could tell a good many himself. Notwithstanding his long public life, he always remembered a yarn that he carried from his school days.

One year when the district schools opened in his town one of the teachers in making a record of the ages of her pupils, as required by law, found that one little girl, who came from a family not noted for being especially bright, was unable to say when her birthday came.

So in order to complete her records the teacher walked two miles to see the girl's mother one afternoon after school. Asked if she could remember just when her daughter was born, the woman thought for some little time and then, with a sort of puzzled look, said:

"Well, the gal was born in tater time, that's sure, but I can't remember whether they was a-plantin' on 'em or a-diggin' on 'em."—Boston Herald.

Retaliation.

A man who was a guest at one of the summer resorts in West Virginia tells of a wedding ceremony he witnessed in the town near by.

The minister was young and easily embarrassed. It was the first wedding he had ever undertaken. The prospective bride and groom were both younger and still more easily embarrassed than he.

When the minister had finished the service and muttered a few kindly but halting words to the young couple he had just united the bride looked at him, blushing, but confident.

"Thank yer," she said clearly. "It's shore kind o' yer to congratulate us, an' as long as you haven't ever been married yit maybe we'll have a chance some day to retaliate."—Harper's Weekly.

LITERATURE

In this column will be published weekly one or more selections of poetry or prose, selected from many sources and from best authors.

Call of the Great North Woods
There's a lonely northland valley and a restless rushing stream Where the cow moose and the yearling drink at dawn.
There's a stretch of broken water
where the leaping salmon gleam
And at dusk the doe comes stealing with her fawn.

There's a living, haunting memory of the sweet wind in the pines.
There's a yearning for the swish of split bamboo;
And a never ending longing 'round
my hungry heart entwines
For the wash of water 'gainst a bark canoe.

There's an Indian impatient, and he wonders why I stay,
For the square tail's rising eager
for the fly;
While the ouananiche is waiting
where the teal and mallard play
And the days of our delight are slipping by.

Oh, I know the geese have nested, all the laggard leaves are out And the partridge cock is drumming in the spruce.
I can smell the fragrant odor of the balsam all about,
For the spirit of the Northland
woods is loose.

There's a green, enchanted valley in the blue hills leagues away.
There's a never ceasing call that lures me forth;
And I wait with leaping pulses for the coming of the day
When I go to seek the magic of the north

—George T. Marsh.

William McKinley
James Whitcomb Riley's Poem.
Read at the unveiling of the McKinley Monument and published in the National Magazine for November.

He said: "It is God's way;
His will, not ours, be done."
And o'er our land a shadow lay
That darkened all the sun;
The voice of jubilee
That gladdened all the air
Fell sudden to a quivering key
Of supplication and prayer.

He was our chief—our guide—
Sprung of our common Earth,
From youth's long struggle proved and tried
To manhood's highest worth;
Through toil, he knew all needs
Of all his toiling kind.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers.
Its effects are charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently though surely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.
If it's painful periods with women, same cause.
If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainly, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.
We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

"ALL DEALERS"

The favored striver who succeeds,—
The one who falls behind.

The boy's young faith he still Retained through years mature—
The faith to labor, hand and will,
Nor doubt the harvest cure,—
The harvest of man's love—
A nation's joy that swells
To heights of Song, or deep whereof But sacred silence tells.

To him his Country seemed Even as a mother, where He rested—slept; and once he dreamed—
As on our bosom there—
And thrilled to hear, within
That dream of her, the call
Of bugles and the clang and din
Of war.... And o'er it all

His rapt eyes caught the bright Old Banner, winging wild
And beck'ning him, as to the fight
When—even as a child—
He awakened—and the dream
Was real! And he leapt
As led the proud Flag through a gleam
Of tears the Mother wept.

His was a tender hand—
Even as a woman's is,—
And yet as fixed, in Right's command,
As this bronze hand of his:
This was the Soldier brave—
This was the Victor fair—
This is the Hero Heaven gave
To glory here—and There.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr.
Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

A POPULAR FOOD DELICACY
Why Karo Corn Syrup has Attained
Such High Favor for Every Use
"From Griddle Cakes
to Candy."

To one who compares the relative merits of Karo Corn Syrup—its goodness, its purity, its food value and its price—with those of other products for similar use, there is little room to wonder why it is rapidly displacing
all other syrups on the market.

Karo Corn Syrup is a clear, golden syrup of the golden grain, so exquisitely good that it makes griddle cakes, waffles, biscuits, etc., fairly melt in one's mouth. It is delightful as a spread for bread. Housewives claim that its peculiarly delicate and pleasing flavor makes Karo unap-proached for baking, candy-making or for any use where syrup is employed as a sweetening agent.

More than this, Karo Corn Syrup is a food of remarkable value, so nutritious and sustaining has it proven to be. It delights and benefits the old and young, the weak and strong, digesting with practically no tax upon the system. Because of its wholesome and natural purity, it has received the unqualified endorsement of food experts.

The method of packing and selling Karo Corn Syrup in air-tight, friction top tins is a commendable one,
for it insures unaltered purity of the product at all times.

Where One Cow is Kept
Families that keep only one cow should endeavor to have the best animal that can be procured. More labor is required to care for a single cow, proportionately, than for a herd.
A cow for the family should give a large flow of milk for at least ten months of the year, and the milk should contain not less than four per cent. of butter fat, as cream is one of the essentials. It is better to have a cow that gives even richer milk, but the majority of family cows are selected without regard to merits in that respect. It is difficult to rear the calves in such cases, hence in purchasing the family cow it will be profitable to pay a high price for a superior animal.

The Postmaster of Gasconade, Mo.,
Daniel A. Bugh, says of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, "I am doing so well, and improving so fast
in health, that I cannot say too much for your Kidney & Bladder Pills. I feel like a new man." DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are sold by Ed.
D. Heckerman.

ALONG THE COLUMBIA

Timber the Principal Resource—Ore-gon's Fine Mountain Scenery.

The country from Seattle to Portland is largely a dairy and fruit country; small farms are to be seen on every hand, where many kinds of fruit, especially blackberries and raspberries, are seen in great abundant. The land is very productive and is a natural dairy country. The best herds of dairy cows I ever saw anywhere are along this route. We crossed the Columbia river on an immense car ferry that afforded us a good view of the scenery.

The greatest resource of this portion of the United States is timber, and President Hill of the Great Northern railroad recently made the remark that one acre of Oregon timber furnished more traffic from a railroad standpoint than one hundred and eighty acres of wheat.

Great water powers are everywhere
to be found, many of these, of course, are being partially used in manufacturing and at Oregon City, fifteen miles from Portland, there is a great water-fall which supplies the power for electric railway, electric lighting and numerous mills, and at this point is produced the paper upon which the great papers of the Pacific Coast are printed.

The general thrift and prosperity of Portland and its scenic attraction command the attention of the stranger the instant of his arrival. We took an electric car and visited Portland Heights, which furnishes one of the best and grandest views of mountain, hill and valley, of stream and city, in the United States. The best view is from the Observatory, 1,000 feet above the river, overlooking the Willamette valley, with its majestic stream on one side and the West valley, skirted by the Coast Range, on the other. From this point five snowy peaks are visible at once, Mt.
Hood in front of you, Mts. St. Helens, Rainier and Adams to the north, and Mt. Jefferson to the south. From Council Crest one can also obtain a good view of the Columbia river, from which it emerges from the gorge to its union with the Willamette. From this point we could see a fleet of United States gun boats lying at anchor in the river, with the gun boat Chicago as flag-ship. No visitor to Portland can afford to miss this view—it is one of the finest to be obtained on the Pacific Coast. In addition to these attractions, Portland offers the pedestrian the unique privileges of burying himself in the solitude and silence of uncontaminated nature in twenty minutes' walk from its busy streets.

The greatest attractive feature of this section of the country from the standpoint of scenery is the Columbia river, and one of the desirable things about this, to the traveler, is that the trip can be taken, both going and returning to Portland, in one day.

The salmon industry appeals not only to the fisherman but to the commercial man as well and every year
adds to the value of the salmon pack.
This is not so much true from the fact that there are more salmon but that the fish are taken care of and,
to add to the natural increase, great hatcheries have been established both by the state and by the United States Government. The salmon begins an existence up in the hills and mountains, at the source of various streams leading into the Columbia, and those that live through the earlier battle of life go out into the deep water of the Pacific ocean and remain for four years, then return to the Columbia river, either to be caught and furnish food for mankind or to go to the head waters and spawn. Every dam that is put in the river, or obstructions of any kind, must furnish a way to allow these returning fish to get to their spawning ground, and they will climb flumes that would appear to the stranger to be impossible. Western Oregon has innumerable hop fields and the state produces more hops than any other in the Union, while the eastern portion of the state has great herds of sheep and cattle.

In no part of the United States have I found so much of interest to write about as here in Oregon. It is not alone the great forests and fertile fields that are attractive and that make Oregon the whole Pacific coast prosperous—it is men, men of broad ideas. Take as an illustration the Business Men's Association and the Chamber of Commerce, of Spokane and Portland, and the person accustomed to eastern methods will find them wonderful organizations. They seem to have discovered the proper method of working to the best interests of these cities and they work entirely in harmony. There is no town east of the Mississippi river, of from five to twenty thousand inhabitants, but could learn a useful lesson by sending a delegate to study the methods of these two cities. A. Decker.

DRY UP RAW SPOTS IN THE SKIN

Read How You Can Eradicate Those Terrible Red Splotches Which Itch and Torture You.

Those raw and burning spots in the skin which make you scratch until you are almost mad with torture—
they can be dried up and the skin will become as pure and white as ever
by the use of the most simple external remedy known to medical science
—a remedy made simple by the fact that its basic ingredient is oil of wintergreen. It is a liquid remedy used externally for Eczema, ring worm, barber's itch and other diseases of the skin, sold under the name of D. D. D. Prescription: This remedy instantly kills the germs which cause the itch. We know that the instant you apply a few drops of the D. D. D. liquid to that awful itching skin the agony is gone—you are free from that itch, soothed, cooled, refreshed,—soon the unsightly red spots with their nasty exudations begin to disappear.

Read this letter from Mrs. J. W.
Choate of Carrollton, Wash., one of many thousands we have:

"I am so thankful that a cure has been found for that terrible disease, Eczema. Our little boy was tormented with Eczema for two years. I sent for a sample of D. D. D. and it helped him wonderfully. After using three bottles he is well. I cannot say enough for D. D. D. Today the child's skin is smooth and clean and I shall recommend D. D. D. to every sufferer with skin disease."

While we have not seen the original copy of Mrs. Choate's letter, we are sure it is a genuine letter, for we know that the D. D. D. Co. is constantly getting hundreds and hundreds of letters of endorsement from those who have been cured by D. D. D.
We know from people in our own town how wonderfully D. D. D. helps skin sufferers, and if you have any kind of skin trouble at all, drop into our store and we will show you letters from those who have been cured,
your own neighbors perhaps, letters giving important news to skin sufferers. F. W. Jordan, Bedford, Pa.

"Don'ts" Concerning the Cows
Don't be unkind to the milk cow.
Don't use a club, use kind words
instead.

Don't allow any loafers around when milking, such as dogs, children or cats.

Don't expect the cows to come from pasture by merely calling them,
but drive them up slowly.

Don't yell at the cow, and beware
of profane language, it leaves a bad impression.

Don't allow your finger nails to grow long if you are a daily milker.

Don't torment a cow by teasing her young.

Don't expect a cow to give as much milk when half fed as when properly cared for.

Don't allow cows to sleep in a muddy shed.

Don't allow your cows to be chased by dogs or be hurried when going to or from pasture.

Don't, when milking, beat the cow
for stepping backward when flies are numerous.

Don't permit the cow to drink impure water.

Don't fail to keep some sort of salt handy so the cow may have free access to it.

Do not feed the milk cow "rotten"
or decayed corn.

Don't forget to allow the cow civil treatment and she will return the same in good measure.

fruit."—W. G. N., in Indiana Farmer

DANCING PROVES FATAL
Many men and women catch colds
at dances which terminates in pneumonia and consumption. After ex-posure, if Foley's Hoxey and Tar is taken it will break up a cold and no serious results need be feared. Refuse any but the genuine in a yellow package. Ed. D. Heckerman.

For the Skin
The sulphur preparation for facial eruptions is as follows: One dram of precipitated sulphur, one dram of spirits of camphor, twenty grains of powdered tragacanth, one and one-half ounces of lime water and sufficient rose water to make four ounces.
Apply at night, bathing away next morning. Once a week take a teaspoonful of rochele salts before breakfast. Eat plenty of fruit, drink plenty of water and take plenty of baths. Internal and external cleanliness will cure pimples.

THE WORST KIND
After Piles have existed for a long time and passed through different stages, the suffering is intense—pain, aching, throbbing, tumors form, filled
to bursting with black blood.
Symptoms indicating other troubles may appear to a thoroughly Pile-sick person.

This is when Dr. Leonhardt's Hemroid, the only absolute Pile cure, brings the results that has made its fame.

It will cure the most stubborn case in existence and a guarantee to that effect goes with each package.

It is to be had for $1.00 at F. W.
Jordan, Bedford, Pa., or from Dr.
Leonhardt Co., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Appendicitis
is due in a large measure to abuse of the bowels, by employing drastic purgatives. To avoid all danger, use only Dr. King's New Life Pills, the safe, gentle cleansers and invigorators. Guaranteed for headache, biliousness, malaria and jaundice, at all

BROADBRIM'S BUDGET

forgotten. One of the most singular features of our politics at this time is the unanimity with which leading politicians, Democrats and Republicans, speak of the third term for President Roosevelt. It seems to be all in vain on his part but our people seem unwilling to take no for an answer; they want to make the President break his word, and, as far as I am concerned, I believe it would be the best thing for the nation and there are millions of others of my way of thinking. There is no good reason why a President of the United States should not serve a third term; Senators, Congressmen and the highest officers in the land can duplicate terms of office indefinitely, yet we expect the President, in the brief term of four years, to understand all the tremendous questions of war and peace on which the Government of the United States depends.

We are in trouble in the money market. Money has been named "the root of all evil," but on its possession the prosperity of a country depends; when money centres, like the Bank of England, feel compelled to double their discounts it is pretty certain that something is radically wrong. The late financial scare has drawn hundreds of millions of dollars from the banks to be hidden away in dark and secret places for safety. No greater misfortune could injure the nation than such a financial calamity. There is a gleam of hopefulness coming through the clouds in that the strike is broken. Men are coming to their senses; reason and arbitration are better than violence, but the laws of the land must be maintained as supreme.
